Dangerous Denial Story

High power advertising couple, a real “alpha” or “power” couple, Vitz and Kat, had been married fifteen high speed years. By the time Kat realized how serious their situation was, both Vitz and Kat were testing HIV positive.

Kat had been entirely monogamous and also, by the way, drug-free all fifteen years.

Vitz, on the other hand, had been for several years “exploring” his sexuality—mostly on the sly when he was high, but not keeping this activity entirely from Kat, his best friend and partner in life.

Indeed, Kat knew about Vitz’ activities to some extent and felt Vitz was behaving like this as a result of his tendency to overuse certain drugs rather than out of a desire to cause pain or threaten their relationship. However, Kat just trusted that Vitz would practice safe sex extra-maritally because he promised he would.

Oh, and by the way, Kat had also just assumed that Vitz would of course always use sterile needles when he would shoot up.
